

WorkLife HR Offers Two Month Free Trial to eDoc America

TROY, MI – August 31, 2009 – Starting September 1, WorkLife HR’s clients and their employees will have unlimited access to medical experts through eDoc America for two months. WorkLife HR, a provider of financial and administrative solutions to the workplace including payroll administration, human resource management, employment law compliance and benefits services, is offering the eDoc America program as one of its WorkLife Wellness products.

eDoc America allows employers and their employees to have access to board certified, experienced physicians to consult with them about health care. eDoc America physicians provide personal, professional responses and advice, suggest treatment alternatives, use links to websites or refer individuals to specialists. Additional features include Healthy Lifestyle Assessments, 3D Health Encyclopedia, 24-Hour Registered Nurse Advice Line, Weekly Health Tips, Medical Library, and Personal Health Record. The service can save the cost of medical co-pay when an office visit is not necessary as well as save time off from jobs and schedules by not having to go to unnecessary doctors’ appointments.

eDoc America contracts with physicians and psychologists located across the United States to provide health information and assistance through a secure online service. The doctors often use these patient interactions to encourage healthier behavior as well as to promote preventive measures and screenings.

To access the free account, clients and their employees simply visit eDoc America’s website (www.edocamerica.com), click the “Register Here” button and choose “WorkLife HR” from the drop-down menu.
